

Tuesday May 7, 2013: Reclaiming Sexual Health: Facing Addiction in a Sex Oriented Society

Topic: Help those in your life avoid pornography addiction or recover from sexual addiction using a professional and science-based program designed to help individuals overcome difficult-to-change behaviors. Bruce and Jeannie will take you through their personal experience with pornography addiction, their path to recovery and the hope they found integrating Theology of the Body and brain science in this new healing ministry.

Biography: Bruce Hannemann, M.A. and his wife, Jeannie, M.A., are co-founders of RECLaiM (an anonymous, online recovery program that helps struggling individuals break free from pornography addiction and other unwanted sexual behaviors). They not only have shared their recovery journey with hundreds of couples through their ministry, but have lived it personally. As an author and public speaker, Bruce has shared his recovery story with humility and candor. He is honored to tell his story of God's restoration in his life and marriage. Bruce brings a wealth of understanding of young adults and the ability to teach scientific concepts with over thirty years' experience teaching science at the college level.

As executive director of Elizabeth Ministry, Jeannie Hannemann operates a headquarters for over 700 chapters on six continents and a retreat center for direct service to those in need. She has over thirty five years' experience assisting families through a variety of formats, including as an educator, pastoral and family life minister, Catholic radio personality and retreat director. Jeannie's personal journey through her husband's pornography addiction, her extensive work with hurting women, and her belief in the power of God's grace makes her a sought after confidant. Jeannie is an internationally recognized author, speaker and consultant. Her programs have won diocesan, state and national awards within the church and secular community. Jeannie has a Master's Degree in Adult Christian Community Development with a concentration in Family Life.
