

Abuse Policies (354-360)

The Archdiocese has a moral, spiritual and legal obligation to safeguard, in all respects, all of those to whom we minister (Matthew 18.6). It is committed to exemplifying integrity and accountability and acting with justice and mercy. It expects its clergy, employees and volunteers to be outstanding individuals of high moral and ethical standards. The Archdiocese opposes all forms of abuse, and pledges to offer an environment free from abuse for all of its spiritual and pastoral activities.

This policy encompasses an approach that focuses on prevention and education, intervention and healing. It aims to protect the innocent, reduce the risk of abuse, and offer protection from false accusations. It offers clear procedures and protocols to prevent and respond to abuse.

Prevention

Prevention will incorporate screening, education and training in abuse prevention. Psychological and other screening processes are utilized by the seminary for candidates for the priesthood, and also by the Archdiocese for candidates for the Permanent Diaconate and for admission and incardination of clergy from outside the Archdiocese. In addition to mandatory employment interviews and reference checks of Archdiocesan personnel, all clergy, Archdiocesan employees and those volunteers who work directly with children and vulnerable persons will be required to obtain a police information check and vulnerable persons check. An abuse prevention program will be employed for education and training. Successful completion of this program will be required by all clergy, Archdiocesan employees and those volunteers who work directly with children and vulnerable persons.

Intervention

The Archdiocese will respond swiftly and compassionately to investigate an allegation of abuse, provide assistance to those in need of healing and reconciliation and take any and all means to prevent a future occurrence of abuse. Adhering to civil and canon law, working together with the Abuse Protection Advisory Committee, psychological counselors, the Human Resources Office of the Archdiocese, and the Archdiocesan insurer and legal counsel, the Archdiocese will provide a thorough and comprehensive response to resolve any allegations of abuse.

These policies and procedures reflect the existing law of the Province of Alberta, the laws of Canada and current canonical norms. They apply to all clergy, employees and volunteers of the Archdiocese.

This policy will be reviewed every four years.
